The emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln immediately affected all negroes who were enslaved, while it at the same time emancipated the free negroes who had no more rights than the slaves in law. And HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF the lotomac, Grand Army of the Republic. Washington, D. C., April 10, 1891.—Comrades: It is with a sorrow that will be shared by the 3,000 comrades in this department that the announcement is made of the death of Mrs. Rose Gibson, wife of our beloved comrade, Past Department Commander Wm. Gibson, that occurred at 1:45 p.m. on Thursday, the 9th instant. The funeral services will be held at the residence, 1422 S st., Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Department officers, staff, aides, post commanders and all other comrades who can will, it is hoped, assemble at these headquarters at 1:30 o'clock p.m. on SUNDAY and proceed to the house in a body. Let us thus demonstrate our reverence for the memory of our dear friend, whose constant affection and warm hospitality we shall never torrect, as well as our regard for those she loved and has left to receive our sympathy. By command of JAMES M. PIPES, Department Commander, JOHN P. CHURCH, Assistant Adjutant General.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST—SABBATH the white men who were the slaves of a faise and dan-gerous policy—false because it was unjust, unreason-able and inconsistent with the spirit of the American system of government, dangerous because no nation has ever prospered or grown strong by enslaving those who are entitled to freedom and protection. In my judgment the proper way for us to observe emancipa-tion day is the way we have always observed it in this tion day is the way we have always observed it in this District. The colored aristocracy which holds itself aloof from the common people have a perfect right to celebrate the day in the manner best suited to them. I speak only for a class of negroes who were formerly in bondage or whose immediate connections were in bondage, and these, my constituents and friends, are neither ashained nor afraid to give evidence of their gratitude. d nor afraid to give evidence of their gratitude to God, to Abraham Lincoln and the republican party for the blassings of freedom and citizenship which have come to us through these agencies. We feel that have come to us through these agencies. We feel that it is our duty, as it is our privilege, "to sound the loud timbrel o'er Expyt's dark sea," to make merry and to show the friends of freedom all over this land that we appreciate our citizenship, that we honor the memory of that great man. Abraham Lincoln, who with a single stroke of his pen broke the shackles from four and a half millions of bondmen and set the captive free. The same feeling, the same enthusiasm, the same desire to rejoice and make merry is shown by every patriotic American who remembers the struggles of the fathers of the revolution to become a free and independent nation. We shall celebrate the SPIRITUALISM AT GRAND ARMY Hall EVERY SUNDAY. Miss Jennie Leys of Massachusetts speaker for April. Miss Leys presents the truths and beauties of spiritualism in the most beautiful language, and the spiritualism of Washington take both pride and pleasure in caling the public to bear this most wonderful and gifted inspirational speaker. The belief is that the Secretary is, therefore, going to meet the Canadian commissioners in October with the proposition that the discus-October with the proposition that the discussion between them shall be upon three topics—first. Bering sea; second, the Newfoundland fisheries; third, international trade. His attitude will be that of a shopkeeper refusing to open a new credit with a customer until he has settled up his old account. By this means, it is thought, the Secretary may be able to bring the representatives of England up to the dilemma of either abandoning the somewhat unsavory question of reciprocity or making some sort of advances toward the settlement of the seal problem.

UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY NOT DESIRABLE. It is an open secret that the Secretary does not care to enter upon too unrestricted a discussion of reciprocity with the present Canadian administration, and that although he is willing to talk upon those lines with commis-sioners from across the line, he sees little or nothing to expect from a trade arrangement with Canada.

The only difficulty in the case lies in the fact that the consent of Lord Salisbury must first be obtained before anything can be done, and the British premier is supposed to be peculiarly tenacious of his position in the premises. Sir Julian Pauncefote, it is said, is using his

After dwelling at some length on the preval-ence of grumbling and betting dens, he gree quite excited, and shaking his fist, said: "A courtier of King Cambyses, the son of Cyra once ventured to reprove that monarch, and I wish that some one had the power to go and tell that prince of ours what wrong he is doing, [great applause] and tell the Prince of Wales, who associates with a divorced duke, a marquis rulled off the turf for pulling his horses and a baccarat baroness, that when he sets the weight of his great resistion on the side of the cutof his great position on the side of the cut-throats of the turf and against the church and Sunday school, whether he be the Prince of Wales or the prince of anywhere else, he is not the man to reign over us." DISSENTERS PROTEST LOYALTE. The substance of the letters is that the Non-Conformists are not surpassed in lovalty by churchmen, or any other religious denomination, and that the Rev. Mr. Davis represented only hiss-self in his demonstration against the reval family. Since the banquet at which Mr. Davis took his peculiar stand be has been boycotted by his own congregation and a movement is ta

The authorities will take no notice of his the terances, as it is the invariable custom of the royal family to ignore any attack in words, whether vile or simply disloyal. In this respect English royalty is entirely different from that of the continent, where criticisms of rulis families are met with prompt and exemplary punishment. Libels on the queen, which would have led to criminal proceedings if pub-lished against a private individual, have be n allowed to pass unnoticed.
